Bristol County District Attorney challenger Shannon McMahon has issued the following statement:

“On May 4, 2022, I made my position on the leaked SCOTUS opinion regarding Roe v. Wade crystal clear. Roe v. Wade is established law for over forty-nine years, and constitutionally protects a woman’s right to choose. I am unequivocally opposed to the potential overturning of Roe v. Wade.

I have urged my opponent to state his position on Roe v. Wade publicly, because every voter deserves to know where their elected officials stand on this important matter. Further, as Bristol County District Attorney, decisions may potentially have to be made as to the extradition of women who seek an abortion in Bristol County. My opponent has refused to publicly state his opinion on this matter. Clearly, his silence speaks volumes. Mr. Quinn’s refusal to publicly state his position demonstrates that he is not willing to protect a woman’s right to body autonomy. I find this contrary to true Democratic ideology.”
